SEES GERMANY IN NEW PACIFIC BIG FIVE PACT

FRANCE DOESN'T LIKE IDEA
Lawrence Thinks French Republic Will Follow Harding's Model

Washington - Germany, France,

United States, Great Britain and Italy united to insure the peace of Europe just as the four powers banded themselves a year ago in a ten-year treaty to maintain the peace of the Pacific—this may yet be the outcome of former Premier Clemenceau's visit to America.

The aged French statesman did not venture to make a concrete suggestion to conform with the purpose of his mission until he read President Harding's address to congress Thursday in which Mr. Harding recommended the four-power act in the Pacific as "a model for like assurances wherever in the world any common interests are concerned."

EXPECT FRENCH O. K.

When the Washington conference
on limitation of armament was in session a year ago, the same thought was put forward informally but so far as American aid was concerned it was made clear that no such project
could be considered until the four power-pact in the Pacific had been ratified. Twelve months have passed without ratification by France. But the pact is now being debated in the French parliament and will be ratified very soon thus paving the way
for a revival of the idea of a European treaty.

The French have not looked kindly on the idea of including Germany in such a tranquillizing pact but if they are to follow Mr. Harding's model, Germany must be included. The principle of the pact is that the four power-pact and other offensive and defensive alliances in that the latter
were usually aimed at a single power or group of powers. Instead of excluding Japan with which nation it had been thought friction would ultimately come, that country was included and made a guarantor of the peace of the Pacific along with France, Great Britain and the United States.

PROVIDES PARALLEL

In order to provide an exact parallel, the wording of a treaty to tranquillize Europe and yet conform to the spirit and letter of the document which has already been ratified
by the United States senate with respect to one region of the world,
would be as follows:

"The high contracting parties agree
as between themselves to respect
their rights in relation to their interests in Europe.

"If there should develop between
any of the high contracting parties a controversy arising out of any European question and involving their aid rights which is not satisfactorily settled by diplomacy and is likely to affect the harmonious accord now happily subsisting between them, they shall invite the other high contracting parties to a joint conference to which the whole subject will be referred for consideration and adjustment.

"If the said rights are threatened by the aggressive action of any other power the high contracting parties shall communicate with one another fully and frankly in order to arrive at an understanding as to the most efficient measures to be taken,
jointly or separately, to meet the exigencies of the particular situation.

"This agreement shall remain in force for ten years from the time and after the expiration of said period it shall continue to be in force subject to the right of any of the high contracting parties to terminate it upon twelve months notice.

"This agreement shall be ratified
as soon as possible in accordance with the constitutional methods of the high contracting parties."

The foregoing agreement is word
for word exactly what Mr. Harding proposed and what Senator Lodge
and a two-thirds vote of the senate ratified several months ago. The Democrats joined with the Republicans, to accomplish ratification.

Mr. Clemenceau doesn't see why American interests in the Pacific
should be guarded by a treaty of this kind and yet the much greater interest of the United States in Europe ignored. He would insist as did Mr.
Harding about the Pacific that such a treaty applied to Europe would not involve America in any obligations to use force or in any commitment to a super-government.

BE NEIGHBORLY TO WORLD; SAVE FARMS, ADVICE

Baruch Urges International Relations And Better Credit Systems

By Associated Press
Chicago.—Shrinkage of foreign markets affects the farmers credit
more than anything else in the world
and there is nothing of greater importance than the creation of international relations that will be precedent
to the reestablishment of those markets, declared Bernard M. Baruch of New York, former chairman of the War Industries board in an address
Monday before the American Farm Bureau federation.

"Surplus finally determines the prices of products," he said. "You farmers are the real exporters of the country. It is you who are deeply interested in foreign affairs and if you cannot sell your surplus abroad you must take a lower price for that portion of the produce consumed here.
The reestablishment of the world's foreign markets can only come with
the reestablishment of the world's
economic peace and balance.

NEED BETTER FINANCING

"Agriculture needs the same access to commensurate financing as modern business. In order to be placed upon an equality with other industries
with which it has to deal. A new finance system to increase the volume of three classes of rural credits
should be set up for more orderly marketing of crops, for the purpose
of raising and marketing cattle and for productive purposes.

"The basis for increased marketing
credits should be the placing of products in a warehouse where a neutral
authority would register their grade
and amount and issue the farmer a certificate. This certificate could be taken to a bank and credit obtained
upon it or to a new finance corporation which should be created for the purpose of lending money to the farmer at the lowest possible rate of interest for not exceeding one year upon his note secured by the certificate.
The new institution, independent of the present banking system, would place the farmer's note in its treasury
and issue its own obligations which would be discountable in the federal reserve system when having not more than nine months to maturity.

cago prepared to meet Georges Clemenceau, former Premier of France, due to arrive here to address a meeting

eration on "The Farmer As a World

PLAN TO SAVE 2,000 WISCONSIN BABIES

By Associated Press
Madison.—A saving of 2,000 child lives in Wisconsin and a reduction
by one-half of the maternal deaths
will be the result of child welfare and public health nursing measures if continued in effect during the next five years, the state board of health estimates. It is asking $35,000 for the second year of this work.

How the board plans to meet the public health needs of Wisconsin during the coming two years is summarized in its budget, which totals
$275,021 for the first year and $264,021
for the second. Of state funds the board asks the next legislature for $184,567 the first year and $178,567
the second. These requests are supplementary to federal aid of $32,751,
and exclusive of $57,703 in fees which support several bureaus.

The search of the army aviators

ther south into the Arizona border

ports indicating the presence of the

derson is 67 and her husband 71.
"Pursebound and profane," were adjectives applied by Mrs. Anderson to her aged spouse, who is a retired farmer. She asserted he told her shortly after the wedding ceremony
in 1879, that he had "married her on

ONLY HALF ENOUGH COAL FOR BADGERS

Rush Coal Transportation Before End Of Navigation Season

By Associated Press
Madison.—A final effort to get through hard coal to Wisconsin is being made by dock companies before
the shipping season closes. P. H.
Pressentin, secretary of the state coal
committee said Monday. Continued
good weather indicates that 10 days
of navigation are still possible before
the shutdown, he declared.

According to the secretary of the coal committee the anthracite shortage in Wisconsin is to be greater than was anticipated. Less than 50 percent of the hard coal normally consumed by the state has been received
up to the present time at Wisconsin
docks.

"We wish to again impress upon all dealers throughout the state the absolute necessity of conserving coal
all along the line," Mr. Pressentin said. "It is especially necessary that dealers prohibit the use of wasteful
grades of hard coal by furnace consumers, since all of this product will be needed by the persons using base burners.

DENIES "DEATH CAR" SPED 50 MILES AN HOUR

Milwaukee.—Denial of published reports that the automobile of Nicholas Gonner, Dubuque, Ia., publisher who with two others was killed in the wreck of his car near South Wayne
Dec. 2, was going 50 miles an hour at the time of the accident is made in an affidavit issued here by Elizabeth J. Hirschboeck of this city, who also was in the car but escaped unhurt.
The affidavit sets forth that Mr. Gon-ner was driving at a speed not exceeding 15 miles an hour when the automobile skidded on the approach to a very narrow bridge, overturned into a creek, pinning all of its six passengers underneath and drowning Mr.

FARMER AND LABOR MEET; TAKE UP VOTE

Head Of Cleveland Conference
Warns Of Future "Big Stick"

By Associated Press
Cleveland, O.—The two-day conference for progressive political action
opened here Monday with representatives of labor, the Farmer Labor and National Nonpartisan League groups.
Progressives and Socialists in attendance to map out a policy for present
and future political action.

Most of the opening session was devoted to the reading of reports, appointment of commissions and the annual address of William H. Johnston, international president of the machinists union and president of the conference. Approximately 200 delegates from nearly every state in the union mainly accredited delegates of international labor organizations and national farm groups attended.

"DISCOVERS JOINT POWER"

Farmers and labor have discovered
their joint power through the primary
and there is now hope that our political and industrial future is safer than it ever was before," William H. Johnston, international president of the Machinists' union declared in opening the conference.

On Nov. 2 the stored up wrath of the people was let loose against the so-called captains of industry, the freebooters, profiteers, plunderers
and political puppets of the discredited
Harding administration, Mr. Johnston said.

"On that day American citizens voted more intelligently than they ever did before. They voted with independence, they voted with magnanimity, they voted with courage and they voted with a big stick of outraged
indignation but they used it thus far
most effectively, so thoroughly in fact,
that the predatory interests in and out of the present administration are still trembling with paid from the wallows they got and they are quivering with fear as to what is likely to happen to them when the voting intelligence and independence of the people develops in every legislative and judicial district of our land.

"NO SELFISH PROGRAM"

"We laboring people of the city and would not and will not attempt to benefit at the expense of others. What we want, and what we will have, is justice. Justice in prices and wages.

Justice in industrial and political control. Justice in the security of life for all. We will perform useful work and for those who are unjust
or who have been injured or ruined."

DEMOCRATS FIRE GUNS ON SHIP BILL

Balk At Move To Hasten Consideration Of Marine Subsidy Measure

Washington.—The Democratic attack on the administration shipping
bill was started Monday while Republican leaders were attempting to get
the measure before the senate.
Chairman Jones of the commerce
committee, soon after the senate commenced proposed that consideration of bills on the senate calendar be disposed with and that shipping bill be taken up. He also asked that the senate sessions be lengthened through advancement of the hour of convening.

Senator Fletcher of Florida, ranking Democrat on the committee and Senator Pomeroy, Democrat, Ohio,
objected immediately and in the arguments that followed other minority senators assailed the Republicans for seeking to hasten action on the bill.

Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, declared postponement of action on the measure in the house until after election, was due to a fear by Republican leaders that it would be an issue in the campaign resulting in defeat to those house members supporting it. He asserted that even after action was postponed the issue figured in congressional campaigns in 50 or more districts and that in every instance the Republican candidates
supporting the measure was defeated.

'Marry Young,' Is Advice Of Judge Lindsey

Chicago.—Proper education of children in the problems of married life
as a remedy for the large number of divorces, was suggested by Judge Ben R. Lindsey of Denver, father of the juvenile court, in an address Sunday night.

He pointed out that in Illinois 38,
000 couples were married last year
while 13,000 divorces were granted.
"If the youth of today were educated to the problems of married life and encouraged to marry young and have families, marriages would be more stable," he said.

"Conscience, judgment and loyalty
should be taught. 'Sagging and don'ts'
are the downfall of many. The mistake of modern social censorship is too much paternalism and trying to prepare the path for the youth where youth should be prepared for the path."

SAVED BABIES; THEY GIVE HIM BLOOD NOW

Newark Prays For Recovery Of Physician After Trans-
fusions

Newark, N. J.—While Newark residents of all races and creeds prayed
today for his recovery, Dr. Miller Royal Whitnack, specialist in babies diseases, was fighting for life in the Presbyterian hospital against a possible case of meningitis complicated
with blood poisoning contracted while treating an infant.

Dr. Whitnack has saved the lives of many babies now grown into healthy men and women, and when it was learned that blood transfusions
would be necessary these former patients flooded the hospital with offers. Professional blood givers were used, however, and physicians attempting him said today his wonderful
fight was due largely to these trans-
fusions.

While treating a child several weeks ago, Dr. Whitnack breathed virulent streptococci, or pus-forming germs.
These attacked a gland in his throat,
and the gland had to be removed. The infection spread to his left leg and the leg was amputated above the knee. In a third operation the jugular vein was tied, so as to localize infection. Poison was also drained from his head in mastoid operations.

open. F. H. Alamy, a partner with ownership of the store, passed by the place and noticed the front shade on the window drawn.

WANT U. S. TO CANCEL BILLS; FRANCE LOSES

Adjourn Meeting Of Premiers In London To Avoid Rupture

MEET AGAIN IN PARIS JAN. 2

England Rejects Plan Of French
To Invade Ruhr District
With Forces

London.—The conference of Allied premiers, called to arrange the basis
for an Allied financial and reparations
conference in Brussels, has broken down. It was adjourned at 6 o'clock Monday evening and the premiers had taken adjournment until Jan. 2.

After the conference adjourned,
Premier Poincare said:
"It is finished."
The conference Jan. 2, will be held in Paris, it was announced.

WISH TO AVERT RIFT

London.—Adjournment of the premier conference for eight days in order to avert an open rupture between England and France over the question of German reparations has been virtually decided upon, it was learned Monday.

The British cabinet rejected the measures of force for the Ruhr district
upon which Premier Poincare insisted.
Premier Bonar Law informed Premier Poincare that British public opinion was overwhelmingly opposed to any military measures against Germany.

The conference probably will resume its session in eight days in London or Paris. Meanwhile it is expected to "come guarantee" say because it will satisfy France, at the same time make military action unnecessary. It was stated in French circles that the imminent adjournment was merely a maneuver to prevent an open break among the allies,
particularly between France and England, and that there was little likelihood of finding a common basis of agreement between England and France.

It was further pointed out that in spite of Premier Poincare's desire to cooperate with the new British government, he has been forced largely by the political situation at home to demand the Ruhr as the price of any concessions to Germany.

IT TO U. S.

It was stated in an authoritative
American quarter that the chief problem of bringing the British and French
together during the period of adjournment, lies with the United States. It was said by this authority that England will probably ask the American government if it is willing to cancel the French debt to the United States provided England in turn cancels their French debt. ETETA turn cancels the French debt to Great Britain and at the same time
cancels a definite agreement with the American government ultimately to pay the British debt to America.

This suggestion was made informally
Sunday evening to a certain important American now in London and it will probably be presented directly to Mr. Hughes, the American secretary of State in the course of the present week.

SHERIFF'S WIFE LOSES IN MARINETTE ELECTION

Marinette.—Oscar Dahl, Peshtigo,

the November election was declared
ineligible for office due to the failure of the amendment allowing sheriffs to succeed themselves.

cratic candidate, will oppose Dahl in the final election which has been called for Dec. 23.

INJURED BY FALL

As I was walking east on North Sunday morning I saw an elderly lady slip and fall down on the sidewalk leading into the house on the north west corner of Union and North streets. I hurried to help her up and when I got her on her feet I noticed that her lower lip was badly cut from the fall.

ANOTHER FIELD INVADERS
I spied a woman hauling onions from the Interlake mill. She has a team of horses and a high wagon and can throw on a load quicker than any man. When she is loading her wagon she puts on her sheepskin coat jumps on the wagon and off she goes.

END IN DITCH

While driving home Friday evening about a mile east of Hubert I was hailed by a man who said he was in trouble. He was driving a Ford coupe without chains on a smooth ice road and had slid into a ditch so deep that his coupe tipped over. But fortunately the bank next to the ditch was so high that it prevented the car from tipping more than he was over. He turned the car and quickly succeeded in getting it back into the road with no damage whatever.

WHAT IF HE HAD LOST HIS TROUSERS?

During a free period at high school Friday afternoon, an accident happened causing much excitement. A boy had a comb and some matches in his pocket and when he sat down to a comb rubbed on the matches. It started a smolder. It caused the loss of the comb and nearly the loss of his trousers.

DRIVER GETS SICK

Thursday evening about 7 o'clock on Union a young man was taken suddenly ill. But he had presence of mind to stop the car and jump out to get help. But he fell unconscious and was taken into a home at the corner of Second and Union streets until the ambulance and a doctor arrived and took him to the hospital.

ACCIDENT AT KIMBERLY

Yesterday afternoon on the corner of Main and Beverly streets at Kimberly I spied a seven-passenger Paige car with the rear wheel off and complete ly broken. I was informed by the owner that the accident was due to the icy road and having no chains the car skidded and hit the curb. The passengers were slightly jaded but none injured.

HE SHOULD TIE THEM

While walking along Appleton on Friday noon I spied the Fox River Paper Co's team standing in front of the Northwestern hotel. The driver was in the barber shop. A Ford truck with loose chains knocking against the horses and causing them to run away. They ran as far as the Northwestern depot and then turned east. The swearing driver following some distance behind.

UNLUCKY STREET

About 10:30 Friday morning while coming down Richmond a large sedan suffered a blow-out and the men started repairing it. About three minutes later a Ford touring car came along and within 50 feet of the sedan it had a blow-out. Then on the corner of Richmond and Atlantic a tire on a Ford touring car blew out and had to be repaired. There were three blowouts in one block within ten minutes.

MUST BE NEWLYWEDS

Last night as I was going down Atlantic at the corner of Atlantic and Richmond streets I spied a married couple sitting on a dayvaper kissing. I stopped and watched them. In a short time a few boys stopped and watched them also. When the man was through kissing, he walked on.

A GIRL REPORTED THIS

While in the post office about eight o'clock Saturday morning I glanced over to the Sherman House just in time to see a man in long underwear and barefooted step upon the sidewalk of a window on second floor, reach up and pull down the shade. The white curtains were parted, and the man after drawing the shade about three quarters of the way down still could be seen walking past the window.

INCONGRUITY

I spied at 7:30 Sunday a man on a bicycle between Dew and Baltimore streets walking south a man, well dressed, wearing a cloth overcoat with a storm fur collar and a white snow hat. The white snow hat did look funny.

CARELESS DRIVING

The thoughtlessness of the driver of a Yellow Cab presented what may have been a serious accident Friday evening. A Ford coupe was going down Oneida street and directly behind it was the Yellow Cab, both going at a fair rate of speed. The driver of the Ford evidently forgot to signal as he stopped at the corner of Oneida and Atlantic for the Yellow Cab naturally escaped crashing into him. The brakes were applied without the slightest hesitation and the Yellow Cab skidded straight across the street, turned quickly and continued on his way. The driver of the Ford behind evidently did not realize the danger which was caused by his negligence.

SURE—THEY SHOVED

Going north on Durkeest at 8:30 Friday morning was a driverless ice wagon loaded with ice in such a way that a motorist approaching from

HOME BURNS WHILE OWNER IS IN CHURCH

While Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fritsch were attending services in a church at Brillion Sunday morning their home three miles from the village was destroyed by fire. The house was so badly damaged that it must be rebuilt. Farmers who saw the fire formed a bucket brigade of about 50 men and in a short time they had emptied a drilled well. So much water was poured in the kitchen that it was scooped from the floor into buckets and used a second time. Firemen concentrated their fight on saving adjoining farm buildings. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

the rear could not see there was no driver on the seat.

When the wagon reached the second street north of College-ave, the horses started to make a sharp turn west. A motorist in a great big all-most-new touring car, not having signalled in any way of course that the turn was going to be made, did the natural and correct thing of trying to continue on his way north on Durkeest by passing to the left of the wagon.

When he saw the horses turning, and it was revealed to him that there was no driver, he applied the brakes, but the pavement was slippery and before he could bring the car to a stop, his front wheel had locked with the rear wheel of the ice wagon, and it was only the passing pedestrians that kept his machine from being turned over.

Appleton delivery men should train their driverless horses to stick their tails out to the left when about to make a turn on to another street. That would be complying with the law and would be true automobile courtesy.

AUTOMOBILE SKIDS ON TRACK AHEAD OF PASSENGER TRAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Young Of Neenah Narrowly Escaped Death

Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Young, Jr., Neenah, narrowly escaped death Sunday morning when the Peerless coupe which they were driving skidded on to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad track at the Doly-st crossing and was struck by the 10:52 north-bound passenger train. The coupe was hurled 40 feet and demolished. Mrs. Gavin was cut about the neck and head and was taken to a hospital where her condition is reported as not serious. She probably will leave for her home on Monday. Mr. Gavin escaped with a few cuts and scratches. Both suffered quite severely from shock.

Gavin said the automatic signal at the crossing was not operating and he did not see the train until he was almost on the tracks. He applied the breaks and the car skidded around, backing on the tracks.

ST. JOSEPH SCHOOL IS CLOSED; TOO MUCH ILLNESS

St. Joseph's school was closed on Monday because of the prevalence of contagious in Appleton. Members of the parish were warned Sunday to exercise extreme care so that the youngsters will not be unnecessarily exposed. Other schools of the city are expected to close Dec. 15 for their Christmas vacations.

Ice Rinks Are Play Center For Hundreds Now

The cold snap last week, while disappointing to some people, could not have pleased the skating enthusiasts more. All of the ward ice rinks now have been flooded, and each night hundreds of skaters of either sex and of every age are to be found enjoying themselves on the ice. Indications are that this will be one of the most popular sports of the winter.

The rinks are located as follows: First ward—First ward school; Second ward—Jones park; Third ward—Outagamie and Spencer-sts; Fourth ward—Fourth ward school; Fifth ward—Soo line triangle; Sixth ward—Franklin school. Jones park has been only partly flooded.

KEICHER TO REPORT ON CONVENTION OF SCOUTS

Coming directly from a laymen's meeting of the boy scouts in Chicago, the Rev. Keicher of this city will give a report of the sessions at the executive committee meeting of the schools at Hotel Northern at 6 o'clock Monday evening. Another report will be made on the district plan for scouting in this section which will bring all scout troops in several cities in the valley under one executive. H. H. Hughes, of Chicago, was in Appleton on Friday and gave the opinion of the national council as favorable toward the district plan.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Probably the most striking as well as the most important thing in the president's annual message to congress is his demand for the enforcement of prohibition. His decision to call the governors of the various states into an early conference for this purpose is commendable. The flouting of the eighteenth amendment throughout the country has become a national scandal, and no self-respecting president can afford to write down in history the failure of his administration to utilize every power of the federal government to put an end to the scandal and to give effect to the supreme laws of the land.

He recognizes the fact that the most serious economic problem of the nation is transportation. The president wishes to develop our waterways to the fullest extent and coordinate them with rail and sea transportation. As to the railroad question itself, he offers no direct solution aside from merging the railways into systems for operating efficiency and economy. He does, however, present congress with the fact that it is its duty to legislate on the subject of transportation and to take some intelligent initiative looking to the restoration of satisfactory railway service in the United States.

The president believes that the Railroad Labor board is inadequate and advocates its modification. Whether or not the country agrees with him in the change he suggests, there will be general concurrence in his criticisms of the board as now constituted and his recommendation that it be reorganized. It is the president's idea that the board should be made a division of the Interstate Commerce commission with the authority to enforce its decisions, and he would prohibit railroad strikes by law.

Other portions of the message are less important although they cover many desirable reforms and needed legislation.

THE NEBRASKA SPIRIT

The state of Nebraska is fortunate in having in the person of Samuel R. McKelvie a governor who can, in the midst of national discontent, see American conditions and tendencies in a favorable light. The Post-Crescent has received a letter from Governor McKelvie which contains some of the soundest political and economic philosophy we have come in contact with during the year. Referring to the fact that the wastes and extravagances of the war period have not yet fully disappeared, he says:

It is conservatively estimated that the people of Nebraska spend annually $100,000,000 for pleasure, amusement and non-essentials. This average of $400 per year for every family in the state would amount to nearly $9,000,000,000 if the same rate of expenditure should obtain throughout the nation. If half this amount were used for essentials the cost of living would decline, the products of field and factory would be in greater demand, and there would be no need of the home and abroad would take their proper place in shaping the nation's destiny, and much of the discontent that now exists would vanish. And there is yet another factor that has a very large bearing upon the present situation: There is a growing feeling that the remedy for our economic ills may be found in the legislative enactment and executive dictum. Thus the eyes of the people are constantly fixed upon the seats of government, almost to the exclusion of other quarters from which relief may more properly be expected. There are some things that government can and ought to do to maintain equality and enforce justice, but it is futile to believe that government can promptly adjust the economic irregularities or restore the wastes and losses incident to the war. The sooner it is realized that this responsibility rests with the people, working in harmony with nature's laws, the earlier will be the return to honest labor, fair dealing and unselfish patriotic effort.

Here is a warning against paternalism that every American ought to take to heart. It is also an appeal to self-reliance and individual effort that should sink in. It is the truth about our economic situation admirably stated.

Governor McKelvie does not find the farmers in Nebraska in anything like the hopeless condition in which they have been portrayed as a class throughout the northwest. Nebraska is one of the great farming states in the Union, and he says the total value of its farm products this year will be approximately one half billion dollars, or an average of four thousand dollars for every farm in the state. Loans of the War Finance corporation of $12,000,000 on agricultural paper in Nebraska on three-year time have been more than half paid off in twelve months. He presents a table of price comparisons between 1921 and 1922 which are distinctly favorable in many lines, in fact on practically all lines of agriculture, for the present year. He admits there is still too great a disparity between the prices of farm products and the cost of production, but he holds that "withal, conditions in Nebraska are favorable and the outlook is hopeful. The farmer is getting from under his load of debt, business is moving along conservatively, deflation is complete, losses have been taken and charged off, new wealth is being created at the rate of a half billion dollars annually, labor is gainfully employed, and the aftermath of the war is being cleared away. The inequalities that now exist among the various branches of industry will be adjusted—or there will be no return to permanent prosperity—and when that time comes, Nebraska's house will be in order and ready to make the most of it."

We commend this spirit to the pessimists and the discontented. Times and conditions are not half as bad as they think they are. The grumblers and quitters are with us at all times. They do not know a good thing when they see it, nor good times either. This is the time of all times to be up and doing, and the rewards and opportunities are unlimited. It is not government that will bring the nation back to "normalcy," but the people themselves.

THE TURKISH TRAGEDY

Perhaps it does little good to vent indignation about the situation in Turkey, yet it is hard to keep silent in the presence of that immense tragedy—which is also an immense farce. The allies had Turkey beaten. No member of the central European alliance was beaten more thoroughly. Turkey had played traitor to the allied cause, had done immeasurable damage. She killed and maimed hundreds of thousands of allied soldiers, postponed victory for perhaps two years, cost Europe millions of lives and tens of billions of treasure, and in the end utterly collapsed.

Turkey had gone to pieces. It was fit punishment for a great international crime. And it marked the end of 5000 years of criminal activity on the part of the Turks which had kept Europe in turmoil. It remained only to make sure that the criminal should be kept impotent. What has happened the world knows. Thanks to inter-allied envy and competition for material advantages, and thanks especially to the military and financial aid given the Turks by France, Kemal and his army have made a new Turkey, and Turkey has come back, more arrogant than ever, in a welter of blood and flame.

Merely to allow this revival was a great crime. America herself is not blameless. For America refused responsibility. Nevertheless, mankind cannot shut its eyes to the perils and barbarity flowing from a restoration of Turkish power. Instead of showing tolerance and moderation, the Turks are more arrogantly than ever defying the civilized world in their persecution of christian minorities. They have forced them to flee for their lives and at the same time refused them egress to havens of safety. Their purpose evidently is to enslave the christians or to exterminate them. Is the civilized world going to permit this? The question is more important than all the oil and other resources in the Turkish empire about which the powers, including the United States, are so pathetically concerned.

THE LIVELY GOLF BALL

An advertisement by a manufacturer of golf balls which states that the "radius" in the play to center start a wave of momentum which gives it a great resiliency; the ball is literally alive and the released energy actually fights to free itself, gets away from a chuckle from the editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal-Press of New York. The game is no longer to the strong, nor the skilled comments that editor, but to the rich who can buy balls with more radius in them than the poor man can pay for. He asks why the ball must be struck before it becomes alive, why if it contains radius and so much inherent energy doesn't it fly off on its own account to the next green? He suggests that having radius should give off light and perhaps sound and thus a waste of some billions yearly now charged to fast golf balls.

We have long known that golf balls contained some secret element of perviousness, that an unknown energy frequently carried them in a direction of much variance from the one intended. We have often suspected the little white pellet of being in league with the devil to produce profanity and anger and broken drivers. But now we know it all. It's radius. We join a layman's chuckle to the loud laugh of the scientist. We are in possession of another club.—LINCOLN STALL.

EMETICS FOR EMERGENCY USE

A good emetic should be kept in every medicine cupboard. I advise two items Nos. 3 and 24 in the list suggested in a previous talk on "What Not to Do Before the Doctor Arrives." One is the well known, old reliable Syrup of Ipecac.

Although this is an all-round good medicine to keep in the house, particularly when there are children hanging around the place, syrup of ipecac has two serious drawbacks as a first aid remedy. First, it takes from 10 to 15 minutes to act in most cases, and in many cases at any rate that would be too long to wait. And second, it sometimes fails to act at all. So I include another emetic for emergency use, which I will describe later.

The classical use for syrup of ipecac is croup. One or two teaspoonfuls may be given a young child with croup, to induce vomiting, which relaxes the spasm of the larynx and relieves the breathing. If it fails to work within 15 minutes, a second dose may be given. And that is enough for the time being. The same line of treatment has always been relied on to clear mucus and fluid from the chest and breathing passages of a child choking up with bronchitis. Very small doses, just a drop or two of syrup of ipecac, given in water, every two hours, will act as a stimulant expectorant in cases of bronchitis in the earlier stage when there is much dry irritating coughing. This should seldom be continued more than two days. Ipecac has the reputation of doing good as a local medicament in chronic inflammation of the gums, when the gums bleed easily and are spongy, perhaps even in the condition known as pyorrhea. It is applied in very dilute solution, rubbed on the gums once daily or on the toothbrush. A drop or two of the syrup in an ounce or two of water will serve the purpose.

Copper Sulphate Solution. In emergencies such as poisoning when a prompt emetic is required, ipecac is too slow. I know of nothing so quick and sure as a solution of one grain of copper sulphate in a tablespoonful (half an ounce) of water. This acts with all the liveliness of a rubber ball. In my own emergency outfit I carry a small vial of one grain copper sulphate tablets for the purpose. For the family medicine cupboard I would suggest a solution of two grains of copper sulphate in an ounce of water, labelled "emergency emetic, dose one tablespoonful." Copper sulphate makes a blue solution—it is commonly known as blue vitriol, blue stone, and is itself poisonous, though not in the quantities I have recommended. Unlike ipecac, its emetic action seems to be attended with little or no nausea or depression. Ipecac acts both locally on the stomach and systemically on the motor center controlling vomiting. Copper sulphate acts only locally on the stomach. Of the two, supposing a child has swallowed a poisonous tablet, copper sulphate would be infinitely better to give as an emetic. (Correspondents please cut out and save these items if they wish to preserve them. No copies are available to distribute by mail.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Call the Doctor

Kindly tell me whether I should call the doctor when the baby has a bad cold or is there something I can do? I am just a young mother and don't know what to do, but I know you will give me the right advice. You did for I was married and I shall never be able to repay you.—Mrs. R. H. M.

Answer—Yes, call the doctor and if the trouble is of minor character the doctor can instruct you how to deal with such trouble. This is cheaper and much safer than using the baby for a subject of experiments.

Canned Fruits

I canned beets and berries, using new Mason jars with metal lids said to be genuine zinc. Is such fruit safe to eat?—Mrs. M. L.

Answer—Yes.

Morning Torture

Is a cool sponge bath each morning beneficial, apart from the cleanliness of it, for one whose endurance and strength are below the average? If soap is used freely in such a bath will it do injury to the skin?—Miss P. L. M.

Answer—I do not advise it.

Milk Diet

Is it a good policy to eat nothing but milk for a day now and then? If so, how much milk and how often should it be taken?—W. K.

Answer—Not for healthy persons, as a rule. No particular harm in it if you can have pure raw milk and like it, eight ounces every two hours.

Daily Editorial Digest

(Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

A Resume of American Newspaper Opinion.

PUBLIC CRITICISM OF MIDSHIPMEN AIDED ENEMIES OF NAVAL ACADEMY

There seems to be a general disposition to criticize the action of Secretary of the Navy Denby for his public condemnation of the entire regiment of midshipmen because some of the members are alleged to have become intoxicated following the recent football game with the West Point cadets at Philadelphia.

Editors, while agreeing that the offense, if it actually took place, deserved severe punishment, point out that even the Secretary admits only a very small percentage of the future Admirals violated the proprieties and they felt that undue publicity was accorded the incident.

The affair, as reported by Secretary Denby, "was not a mystery or inexplicable freak of human nature," says the Philadelphia Record. "It was really a logical development. The misbehavior was simply a reflection of the flippancy, cynicism and defiance of the law which the midshipmen have witnessed in high quarters at the capital."

It also must be remembered, the New York TIMES points out, "that the great body of midshipmen did not get drunk. By all means let an example be made of the midshipmen who disgraced their uniforms but was it necessary for the Secretary of the Navy to wash his soiled honor in public? The means of adequate punishment was available. Mr. Denby could have set it in motion without breaching the offense of a few to the detriment of the many. That would have been the wise course."

It is the opinion of the Philadelphia PUBLIC LEDGER that "Secretary Denby lost his head and took leave of his good sense after the game. Standing upon the official houseposts he wailed out the shame of a few midshipmen so vociferously that he has blackened the face of the navy."

Those who were drinking after the game are as nothing to the fiery indignations of the Secretary of the Navy. The Secretary has bobbed the whole thing. His agonizings have confused the guilty and the innocent, hurt the Naval Academy and dealt a blow to the navy."

The Detroit FREE PRESS also points out that "if some of the midshipmen at the Naval Academy have fallen into evil ways, their derelictions may not be condoned; but at least they can say in their own defense that they had before them the example set by some millions of ostensibly law-abiding citizens. When the quality of the so-called liquor now on sale is taken into consideration the Petersburg PROGRESS & INDEX APPEAL says "it should be remembered that one drink of the stuff sold as whiskey these days gets much further than a drink of real whiskey sold while the liquor traffic was legal and yielding to the government hundreds of millions of dollars in revenue every year."

"A good many innocent old grandmothers will now point to the Naval Academy in holy horror," says the Birmingham PRESS. "Bless their guileless hearts. If the President of every man's college were to make a public statement every time a college man was seen drunk at a dance, the combined statements would become as commonplace a piece of news as the weather reports. It is because drinking by naval cadets is the exception that the Secretary denounces the public statement of the Secretary has been the Academy, the Indianapolis STAR says in suggesting that "it would seem as if the way to handle the incident might have been to get the facts without going after them with a brass band and, having ascertained who were guilty, to proceed to punish them instead of reflecting unfavorably on the entire membership. If there are men in the school not worthy of their uniforms get rid of them without creating discredit on all in the process."

The New York EVENING WORLD insists that "punishment for young men old is the only way to enforce law doing what is supposed to do. On the contrary it makes hard drinking a boast. It turns law-breaking into a game. It takes us farther and farther from true temperance."

"No one would undertake to deny," the San Antonio LIGHT says, "that the incident which has so shocked Secretary Denby was disgraceful. But was it disgraceful alone to those whom the head of the Navy Department has reprimanded?" Then a ship on the coast, the Pittsburgh LEADER holds, in suggesting that "one could not speculate upon what would have been the course of investigation and judgment had the culprits been enlisted men of the navy instead of Admirals in the bud. Would they have been denounced as 'a disgrace to the uniform' and then sent back to wear the uniform as if nothing had happened? We may have no class caste in America, but we have something that looks and acts and wears just as well." The Philadelphia EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER remarks that "it is worth remembering that the first talk of 'hoops at the game'—where there was very little booze even in flasks—was heard in New York. We all know that New York wants the service football games. And we all know that New York is chastely obedient to the Volstead law!"

The Lynchburg NEWS holds that "it is to be hoped that Secretary Denby's action will produce wholesome effect, not only upon the present case, but also upon the future standard and requirements prevailing within the precincts of that historic and splendidly equipped institution," while the Altoona MIRIOR is confident "such disciplinary measure will doubtless be taken as will prevent similar spectacles in the future."

Secretary Denby could have cooperated with President Harding for the better enforcement of prohibition. The Waterbury REPUBLICAN believes, "if he had seized this occasion to express condemnation of liquor law violations by those supposedly respectable. The arrest of some of the people—and the more socially prominent they were the better it would be—would have been a more effective measure."

MORE MORE MORE influence. There ought to be a general reform among those who attend athletic contests. In the opinion of the Jacksonville FLORIDA TIMES UNION, which feels that "clean sport is appreciated and encouraged, but the disgraceful conduct that attaches itself to athletic games on too frequent occasion should end." It would the better if restrictions could be applied to a much larger field.

suggests the Manchester UNION in echoing a similar sentiment. It is "not that midshipmen are any worse offenders than students of the schools," argues the lecturer HIR. ALD. "The amazing thing is that a code so rigorously insisted upon, the disregarding of which brings up on the transgressor torture at the hands of his fellows does not appear to have been extended in the Naval Academy to cover drunkenness."

The Rockford REPUBLIC, in commenting upon the suggestion that a cadet actually offered the Secretary a drink from his flask holds that "no one but a foreign diplomat with the real stuff is entitled to offer a drink to a cabinet officer." The New Orleans ITEM takes a somewhat charitable view in recalling that "old college men, with memories of their own student days, will look leniently upon the individual's fall from grace on the day of the big game. That was always a night of big, bad doing for those who had any original sin in them, when things were free and open, and beer cost five cents a glass and other things in proportion."

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What animal makes the most noise when bellowing? D. M.

A. The National Zoological Park says that there is no authentic information as to which animal makes the most noise, but the following animals are generally conceded to be among the greatest noise producers: lion, bull elk, sea lion, wolf, and elephant.

Q. Was Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" produced in the United States before it was played in England? E. A. P.

A. The play "Abraham Lincoln" was written by an Englishman and played in England before it was brought to this country.

Q. Do many Americans take the trip across the English Channel by airplane? D. S.

A. It is estimated that about 70 per cent of the passengers carried across by airplane last summer were Americans. An average of 100 passengers fly to Paris daily from London. London is also connected with Brussels and Amsterdam by air lines.

Q. Is it true that two thin garments are warmer than one thick one? G. R. Y.

A. Government experts say that two thin garments are warmer because the layer of air between them is a poor conductor of heat.

Q. Are castor beans poisonous? B. L.

A. Castor beans contain a poisonous principle, and though harmless when handled, may cause serious if not fatal effects when eaten, especially in the case of small children.

Q. How may the rust stains on porcelain sinks be removed? A. M. E.

A. These stains may be rubbed off with lemon juice or vinegar, provided they are not of too long standing. For what seems to be a more permanent stain, moisten a small wad of tissue paper with a few drops of dilute oxalic acid or hydrochloric acid (both poisons) and wipe the stain; then when it is dissolved, wash the porcelain with soap and water.

Q. What is a panopticon as applied to prisons? L. W. K.

A. A panopticon is a circular prison in which the cells and their occupants are constantly visible to guards stationed in a central tower. Such a prison was proposed in 1787 by Jeremy Bentham. The new penitentiary in Illinois embodies this idea. The interior wall of each cell is made of glass.

Q. Are turkeys caponized? S. L.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that very little has been done in this direction. When it has been tried the turkeys were found to be quite quiet than the toms. For this reason they might be easier to fatten for market.

Q. Have leaves a starch content? D. R.

A. Leaves are often found to contain starch especially at the end of a long period of bright illumination. They seldom contain starch in the morning or on cloudy days.

Q. Please give a recipe for push pie? M. E. W.

A. Soak equal quantities of dried apples and dried peaches until plump. Cook until tender and chop slightly. To two cups of the apple-peach mixture, add 1/2 cup thin cream, 1 tablespoon of cornstarch and 1/2 teaspoon of lemon extract. Fill pie tin lined with plain paste, and bake without a top crust. Serve with whipped cream.

Old St. Nick Is Frat Guest At Dancing Party

A wilderness of evergreen in Elk hall formed the background for the semi-formal party given Saturday evening by Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. The rostrum was arranged like a miniature forest with as many trees as could be used without crowding out Mello-rimba orchestra and a midnight blue sky with little twinkling stars peeped out from among the trees. In the center of the hall was the inevitable decorated tree with so much tinsel and so many colored lights that it brightened up the whole room.

Another part of the room featured a cozy corner with a huge fireplace through which later in the evening old St. Nick found his way. And because the venerable character was so efficiently stuffed he managed to become stuck half down the chimney and nearly upset the fireplace in his effort to get through. The contents of his pack was interesting as it contained little enameled candy jars filled with luscious lollipops.

Prof. and Mrs. Ludolph Arens and Prof. and Mrs. Arthur Weston were the chaperones.

Yuletide Ball Of Deltas Has Dazzling Trim

A beautiful Christmas tree, ropes of fir branches and hundreds of colored lights transformed Knights of Pythias hall into a veritable Christmas hall-room on Saturday evening when Delta Sigma Tau fraternity entertained friends at a dancing party. The tree was placed in the middle of the floor and the ropes of fir and brilliant lights were stretched to the side walls. Artificial frost and snow were thrown up on the tree and branches and looked beautiful with the lights shining up on them.

Santa Claus brought presents for the dancers, who matched their gifts for partners for a future dance. The gifts were given in Chinese letter openers as favors for the favor waltz. Bags full of confetti were distributed among the dancers to throw at the other guests and served to make the party hilarious. Music was furnished by the Campus Serenaders.

PAY TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED MASON

Growing Spiritual Consciousness Stressed By Rev. E. W. Wright In Talk

A large number honored the memory of Masons who have died during the year, at the annual lodge of sorrow Sunday afternoon in Masonic hall. The Rev. Ernest W. Wright gave the address which had for its general theme "Immortality and the Growing Ability to Sense Spiritual Things."

The Rev. Mr. Wright stated that people have little direct knowledge of death but man's growing knowledge of spiritual power gives him hope of such things as immortality. He stated that through the practicing of virtue by such organizations as the Masonic order the soul may be developed. Death is not a final end, merely removes the confining so the soul perfected in virtue may be seen. Special musical numbers were given by Dr. Earl Baker and by Fullinwider string quartet.

POPULATION OF NICHOLS JUMPS 25 IN SINGLE DAY

Establishment Of Manufacturing Company Brings New Families

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Nichols—The population of Nichols increased by 25 in one day. O. R. Dailey of St. Paul, Minn., has helped by bringing a family of six. Mr. Dailey is one of the owners of the Nichols Manufacturing company which is just forming a $25,000 corporation to manufacture the "Dall Miro Glassshield" and the "Getsem Flygun."
J. S. Dann, of St. Paul, with a family of seven also has arrived to make his home at Nichols. M. Mirochuk also of St. Paul and who is interested in Nichols Manufacturing company has come here to stay. N. L. Cadden of Seattle, Wash., took the long trip to Nichols and has decided there isn't a "better town on earth." Mr. Cadden will be employed by Nichols Manufacturing company. Mr. Bailey of Minneapolis will be here in a few days to take up his position with this same company as glass and silversmith. Many more are expected soon as there will be about 50 people employed by this new corporation.
The two articles to be manufactured by Nichols Manufacturing company are entirely new. Mr. Dailey is the inventor of both.
The Dall Miro Glassshield is an automobile mirror for night use. It is inside of the windshield where it readily provides protection for the driver's eyes in case he is approached by an automobile with blinding headlights. The Glassshield, while leaving a clear vision for the driver, throws back the glare of the approaching car in front of the right front wheel in the manner of a spotlight.
This can also be made use of during the day. By switching the Glassshield on the outside of the car the driver gets a perfect rear vision effect.
The Getsem-flygun is a toy resembling a pistol. It has two screens projecting from the barrel. These screens are open and by pulling the trigger they are shut. Any insect in sight will be trapped between the two screens.
Officials of the company say they have more articles which they will produce later.

SLIPS, FALLS DEAD AT DOOR OF CHURCH

DePere Woman Meets Death According To Premonition She Voiced

DePere—A premonition of ill fortune came true in tragic fashion here on Sunday when Miss Mary Johnson, 45 years old, slipped and fell on the steps of the Presbyterian church Sunday morning, dying almost instantly from a fractured skull.
"I don't think I ought to go to church this morning I feel that something is going to happen," Miss Johnson said as she left her home in West DePere. But, dismissing her fears, she set out on the mile walk to the church that she had attended since she was a child of 6.
As the church organ pealed the opening notes of the first hymn of the service, she hurried up the steps. She slipped on the ice coated cement and tumbled backwards.
Unconscious of the fact that one of the most active members of the church was lying dead just outside the worshipers continued until a passing pedestrian discovered the body and carried it to the home of a neighbor.
Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. H. A. Calvert at the same church where the woman met her death.

NEW ZEALAND HEALER WILL ENTER POLITICS

By Associated Press
Wellington, N. Z. — Wiremu Ratana the Maori miracle man now New Zealand is reported to be about to enter politics.
Ratana came under world notice about two years ago as a worker of miracles and continued to work on his farm, teaching his people industry and temperance. He denounced the ancient Maori wizardry, and ascribed his powers solely to faith in the Divine Power. The Anglican church went so far as to approve the work he was doing among the Maori.
Ratana is now believed to be backing the movement of four of his followers to contest the Maori seats at the next general election in December. He is being criticized for the alleged use of his spiritual powers in the material field of politics.

In so doing the cover dropped in place again shutting him in the cistern. The ice gave way and he went down once. His cry and the noise of the falling cover attracted the attention of both a delivery truck driver who was unloading goods in back of the store and a barber nearby who ran to the cistern and panned the child out.

ALTER GLOBE MILL FOR INCREASING 'COTTON' DEMAND

Kimberly-Clark Company Expands Plant For Making Fibre Product

Kimberly-Clark Co. is making extensive alterations to its Globe mill at Neenah in order to keep pace with the demand for its cellulose and "Kotex." Originally, the single machine of the Globe mill supplied this field but with the growth of the hospital trade and particularly with the growth of Kotex demand, it was necessary to transform the Badger mill into cellulose, and now it has become necessary to rebuild the Globe mill, putting in still another cellulose machine.

The mill when rebuilt will be a modern structure of two stories. The lower floor is given over to the manufacture of cellulose while the upper floor will be made to accommodate the growing Cellucotton Products Co. makers of Kotex. Starting two years ago with half a dozen girls, the company now employs a force of 50.

The Globe mill is the original mill of Kimberly-Clark Co. and was built 52 years ago. It has been in almost continuous operation since on various grades of paper or pulp products. During the world war its paper machine was rebuilt to make cellulose which in the year 1918 was supplied to the Red Cross and the army at the rate of two carloads daily.

ELECTRIC WIRING MUST BE O. K.'D

Inspection Ordinance Will Be Enforced On All Work After Dec. 15

Beginning with Friday, Dec. 15, the city ordinance governing the installation of electrical service will be enforced by order of Chief G. P. McGilley of the city fire department. The chief has been promised the cooperation of the Wisconsin Traction Light, Heat and Power Co. that every new electrical connection installed by the company for lighting heating or power will first have to be inspected by the city electrician, Louis Liebler.

According to the ordinance, no new installation can be made unless a company or individual with the inspection by the city electrician. That is dangerous for inexperienced persons to put up with new extensions is seen from the electrocution of a husband and wife in Fond du Lac Wednesday by an extension light wire. The fire department is also interested in the enforcement of the ordinance for the sake of fire protection.

EASTER ISLAND IS NO PLACE TO LIVE

By Associated Press
London—Easter island the land of mystery of the South Pacific, virtually devoid of vegetation and without bird life of any kind is a horrible place to live according to a New Zealand scientist who is now in London after a five months stay on the island.

No trees grow on Easter island because it lacks water and the heavy winds wreck them. No birds live there because there are no worms in the dry soil there are no mosquitoes but this lack of nature has been compensated by vicious local flies.

The island is triangular, 12 miles by nine by seven and is remote from the track of ships. Two hundred Polynesians inhabit it and they suffer perpetually from hunger, according to the investigator, who is Professor J. Macmillan Brown.

Business Women Want Happy Medium In Length Of Skirt They Wear

APPLETON business women are unanimously in favor of comparatively short skirts for business wear. For hours a Post-Crescent reporter searched the offices and stores on College ave. for one girl who wanted to return to the style of ankle length dresses and there was only one. She admitted she was bowlegged and liked them a little longer than knee length. Even she would not consider wearing anything longer than seven inches from the floor.

The business women all said the same thing when they were interviewed concerning the length of their skirts. Long skirts get in their way in the performance of their work, they hamper walking and east move

Paris decrees that skirts must be long, ankle length or longer. In fact, Appleton women with thousands of other women are ignoring Paris and wearing what they want to wear. The Post-Crescent is anxious to hear opinions of the respective merits of short and long skirts. The opinions of men on the subject will be thrice welcomed by the Contest Editor. Write your opinion on women's clothes to the Contest Editor. Sign your name as an evidence of good faith, but your identity will not be revealed in any way. All readers of this paper are invited to write their opinions to the Contest Editor.

ment and the women do not want them. Most of the women already are adopting longer clothes than those of the past summer season, but they refuse to add too many inches.

FEW SHORT SKIRTS
Few flappers in the business world are retaining the very short skirt. Without exception the women interviewed gave their approval to the length of skirt now being adopted. Appleton said that their skirts were measuring anywhere from nine to twelve and even thirteen inches from the floor. Such skirts as are shown in the picture are as much under ban in Appleton as are the long trailing ones.

Those who rail against the impractical dress of women should take note of the practical, sensible and modest blouses and skirts of the average business girl. Pretty pleated skirts, white or flesh colored blouses

WEATHER REVEALS TRUE COAL STATUS

Hard Coal Supply Will Not Be Sufficient For Winter, Dealers Believe

The coal situation in Appleton is becoming serious and consumers will be required to use substitutes before the winter is half over. This information was given out Saturday morning by a local dealer who said the supply is very limited.

Navigation on the Great Lakes has closed so that all shipments if any is available must be by rail which means a period of three week or two months for delivery. Not only is available and is one of the substitutes that can be used in a magazine store.

The present cold wave has caused a rush for coal among consumers but has burned wood up to the present time. In the majority of instances their bins are empty and they are now clamoring for a supply.

No Big Pleasure Steamers Left To Ply On Waters Here

MAIL EARLY. PLEA OF RURAL CARRIER

Rural mail carriers are beginning to notice a response to the appeal for early Christmas shopping and mailing. Each day the number of Christmas parcels delivered along the routes is increasing. The carriers are hoping that many more patrons will catch the same spirit. In past years the mailmen have been hindered unnecessarily the last few days before Christmas.

Postal regulations do not require of the carriers that they attach postage to first class mail. As a matter of accommodation, however, carriers have not refused mail matter that was unstamped. This courtesy will probably be out of the question during the pre-holiday season, as it will mean considerable delay for the carriers to collect the postage and attach the stamps themselves. They have asked rural patrons to cooperate with them in this matter.

SAVE MILLIONS FROM STARVATION

By Associated Press
Berlin—Fourteen million Russians were saved from apparently inevitable starvation through the steps taken to cope with the recent famine declares the all-Russian central executive committee in a publication issued here. The dissolution of domestic hunger relief organizations also is announced.

The American Relief Administration, which is cited as having led in the amount of assistance given by foreign organizations, is credited with distributions amounting to 1,080,000,000 pounds in food, clothing, and medicaments. The committee expresses special thanks for this help, and for that also of the American Friends Service Mission, the Nansen relief, the International Workers, etcetera.

FARMERS WARNED OF NEW LAND FAKE

Real Estate Booms At Muscle Shoals Of No Value, Farm Bureau Finds

Wisconsin Farm Bureau, in a warning issued to its members, says that much attention lately has been drawn to the Muscle Shoals development in Alabama in a way that has no connection with the merits of that proposition. Real estate boosters are seeking investors who will put their money into town lots and other real estate ventures there which have slight possibilities of proving profitable.

The promotion is causing some Wisconsin farmers as well as towns people, to tie up their money in ventures near Muscle Shoals with the expectation of getting great returns at a very early date from such investments.

The real estate merits of Muscle Shoals as a nitrate, water power, transportation and fertilizer undertaking have no connection with these blue sky transactions, the warning says.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Luedeker turned Sunday to their home in Oshkosh after visiting relatives here the last two weeks.

James Foxgrover, formerly of Appleton and now of Kalamazoo, Mich., spent several days with friends in Appleton last week.

'TOMORROW' IS LURING SINGERS

The four music stores gave the following numbers as their best sellers for this week:

Carroll Music Shop. In the Land of Romance, Where the Bamboo Babies Grow; All for the Love of Mike, Why Should I Cry Over You, I Wish I Could Shimmy Like my Sister Kate, Meyer Sager Music Co. Too foot tootin', Mr. Budd, Tomorrow, I'm Through Crying Over You, Carolina in the Morning.

NO U. S. TRAINING AFTER NEXT FRIDAY

Disabled Veterans Must Apply For Vocational Aid By That Time

The final date for the application for vocational training will soon be reached, and disabled veterans are warned again of the time limit. There is a provision in the rehabilitation act that application must be made prior to Dec. 15, 1922.

There are several ways in which this application for vocational training can be made. The veteran may write to any one of the bureau of vocational training, the government, that he is present, or he may be humiliated by signs which proclaim that your contents is 89 per cent pure and free from artificial coloring, no longer will the pure and colorless fluid be allowed to run down your sides and make you messy.

Wherever possible it is best to make application in person at one of the district or subdistrict offices of the veteran's bureau. Application forms may be obtained at any of the bureau offices or from the American Legion, American Red Cross, and other co-operating agencies. These forms should be signed, filled out, and forwarded to one of the veterans bureau offices. If a form is not available, a letter will be accepted as an application.

Where the postmark of the application shows it was made on or before Dec. 15, the application will be considered.

COUNTY NO LONGER YIELDS YULE TREES

Average-sized Tree Will Cost $1 Or $1.50, Dealers Declare

With scarcely a Christmas tree available in Outagamie co. most dealers in trees must go further north for their supply for the holidays. One dealer purchased with difficulty at a distance of 84 miles from Appleton. People in the north demand so high a price for the trees that dealers can not bring them here and sell them reasonably.

The cost of the trees this year is practically the same ranging all the way from 25 cents to $2.50 and $3.50. No prices were being quoted on the huge community tree, but these usually cost $25 or $30 a piece. One dealer quotes a price of $3.50 for his 15 ft. trees in the first class and a reduction if the trees are imperfect while another says his largest trees cost $2.50. The price of the average sized tree is between $1 and $1.50.

Most of the trees which are used in Appleton are purchased from farmers in Wisconsin and Michigan who are clearing their land for cultivation. They are glad to sell in trees of this size because they usually are too small to be of value for fire wood.

Comedy Actress Seeking Berth In Parliament

By Associated Press
London—The staid and stolid halls of Parliament are liable to reflect a lighter vein if Miss Kayle Bellow, a London comedy actress, is successful in her fight to represent the Brighton (seaside) district in the next election.

Miss Bellow has been active in women's suffrage movements and she expects to carry on an extensive campaign at Brighton despite the fact that she will continue her stage engagements without interruption.

Bottles Are Bottles Only Until Pupils Get At Them

Milk bottles, catsup bottles, perfume bottles, salad dressing bottles, all of you, cheer up! Your day is dawning. Some of your sisters have already been emancipated and if by chance you can keep off the ash heap, you too may enter into a new field of usefulness. No longer will you be humiliated by signs which proclaim that your contents is 89 per cent pure and free from artificial coloring, no longer will the pure and colorless fluid be allowed to run down your sides and make you messy.

Bottle! If you are squat and fat, so much the better for you. If you are slim and have beautiful lines, still better. If you are in that class that women call "cunning," your future is assured. You may be pure crystal glass or you may be just common clay, but if you are unusual, you will use out of your present sordid condition.

Such is the message to the mis-cared commercial bottles which the new method of enameling them would carry to the utensil if it could, and if the bottles could understand Childeen in the upper grades of the Second district schools are enameling bottles of all descriptions and making the most attractive holders for flowers, hand lotion receptacles and decorative vases out of them. Some are painted in blue, others in ivory and still others in black. Under the direction of Miss Dorothea Mater, the painters will put small designs on some of them.

Flower pots are being treated in the same way, and with the same colors. The method used is quite simple and the children seem to enjoy putting around with the paints. A coat of white flat paint is put on first and then followed with enamel. The designs are blocked on with chalk and then painted in bright colors.

LOW PRICED AUTOS FEATURE LONDON SHOW

By Associated Press
London—The motor exhibition which opened here this week is the largest ever held in the British Isles or the continent. Not only is every make of car manufactured in England exhibited, but the foremost makes of the United States, France, Italy and Spain also are on view.

Space for the exhibit was sold out several weeks ago and to meet the demand additional space was obtained which was, however, not sufficient.

A feature of the show is the specially designed bodies for all classes of cars, from the famous workshops of France and Italy.

COUNTY WELFARE COUNCIL OF P. O. IS FORMED HERE

L. P. Miller, Hortonville, Heads New Body Of Postmasters And Carriers

In response to Postmaster William H. Zuehlke's call to postmasters and rural carriers of third and fourth class postoffices of Outagamie co. 34 postmasters, or 9 postmasters and 25 carriers gathered in Appleton postoffice Sunday afternoon and organized the "Outagamie County Postal Welfare Council."

Every postoffice in the county except Shiocton was represented, the offices at Bear Creek, Black Creek, Dale, Hortonville, Little Chute and Oneida, having a full attendance.

An executive committee was elected of the following postmasters and rural carriers: Postmaster W. H. Fleweger of Kimberly and Postmaster L. P. Miller, Hortonville, of the third class offices; Postmaster H. R. Bock, Dale, and Postmaster P. D. Harris, Oneida, of the fourth class offices; Carriers Frank D. Heagle, Seymour, N. A. Shauger, Black Creek, and B. F. Collier, Hortonville.

NAME OFFICERS

The executive committee elected the following as its officers: Postmaster L. P. Miller, Hortonville, chairman; Postmaster P. D. Harris, Oneida, vice chairman; Carrier Frank D. Heagle, Seymour, secretary and treasurer.

A constitution was adopted which calls for stated meetings of the executive committee and the entire council. The next meeting of the committee will be held in March, and the annual meeting of the council in June. Employees of the third and fourth class offices are eligible to membership, though others are invited to attend their meetings. It is understood that employees of second class offices may join if they have no local welfare councils in their midst. Appleton, which is a first class office, already has a council in the Postoffice association.

WAS NOT PUSHED

"The matter of organizing county councils has not been pushed by the welfare director," said Postmaster Zuehlke in his address to the convention, "for the reason that all his efforts have been centered on the local welfare councils with the result that there are now 1,000 of such councils in the United States. There are over 300 county councils."

"The local council and county council are similar in that they are working toward the same end. The purpose of a county council is to promote efficiency and harmonious cooperation between postmasters and rural carriers and with the postoffice department. There are many improvements needed in the service. Many of these are dependent upon the action of congress or the department and we should have an intelligent and unselfish discussion of such problems. There are other problems that we can solve and work out ourselves."

EDUCATE PATRONS

"Some of these are: Educate the public as to the workings of the department and above all the farmers to cooperate with the rural carriers;

educate the rural patrons to provide large boxes that will properly take care of parcel post, to erect them at the proper place, paint them white with the name and box number in black; educate the public that Sunday is a day of rest and that postmasters of the third and fourth class should be released from service on that day; urge patrons to provide themselves with stamps and stamp all first class mail."

The following were present at the meeting: Postmaster C. J. Ballhorn and Carriers Charles F. Reinke and John J. Dempsey of Bear Creek; Postmaster C. A. Brauner and Carriers Lawrence T. Wickesberg, Leonard F. Moyn, N. A. Shauger and Frank N. Blick, Black Creek; Postmaster H. R. Bock and Carriers Harold L. Grossman and Walter J. Sedo, Dale; Postmaster L. P. Miller and Carriers Barney F. Collier, Chandler Castellion and William M. Harris, Hortonville; Carrier John VanDyke, Kaukauna; Postmaster W. H. Fleweger, Kimberly; Postmaster S. M. Peeters and Carrier George J. Jansen, Little Chute; Postmaster W. F. Buck, Medina; Postmaster P. D. Harris and Carrier Fred H. Bennett, Oneida; Carriers Frank D. Heagle and Ocea W. Anhalt, Seymour; Shiocton, no representation; Carriers Leo Rupert and John J. Kobussen, South Kaukauna; Postmaster W. H. Zuehlke and Carriers Joseph Tennie, Robert Rohm, George Grimmer, A. J. Fetting, Chester Riesenweber and Frank O. Lettis, Appleton.

A vote of thanks was tendered Postmaster Zuehlke for his efforts in bringing about organization of the county welfare council and for the entertainment and refreshments provided delegates at the meeting.

TO Attend Institute

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will attend a personnel institute at the Y. M. C. A. building at 1:15 Tuesday afternoon which will be conducted by E. F. Denison of Chicago, secretary of the international committee.

FRIES FINED FOR ASSAULTING GIRLS

Waitresses Accosted On Way Home File Complaint Against Assailant

While under the influence of liquor, Frank E. Fries, 966 Lawrence-st., assaulted two waitresses of Belling and Branchford restaurant early Saturday morning, according to charges preferred against him by Marie Black, one of the waitresses. He was arrested by Detective John Duval.

In municipal court Monday the defendant was fined $25 plus costs of $3.45 and also sentenced to three days in the county jail. The jail sentence was later suspended by Judge A. M. Spencer.

According to the complaint, Fries followed the girls on their way home after the restaurant had closed at about 2 o'clock and, in accosting them, slapped the girls' faces. He admitted in court that he had been drinking and that he had tried to force one of the girls into his car.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Luebben and son Jerome and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Krueger and son John spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Gens of Grand Chute.

VALLEY PLUMBERS MEET AT OSHKOSH

A number of Appleton plumbers attended the Fox River Plumbing association meeting at Elk club, Oshkosh, Friday. The representatives included merchant plumbers and steamfitters of the Fox river district.

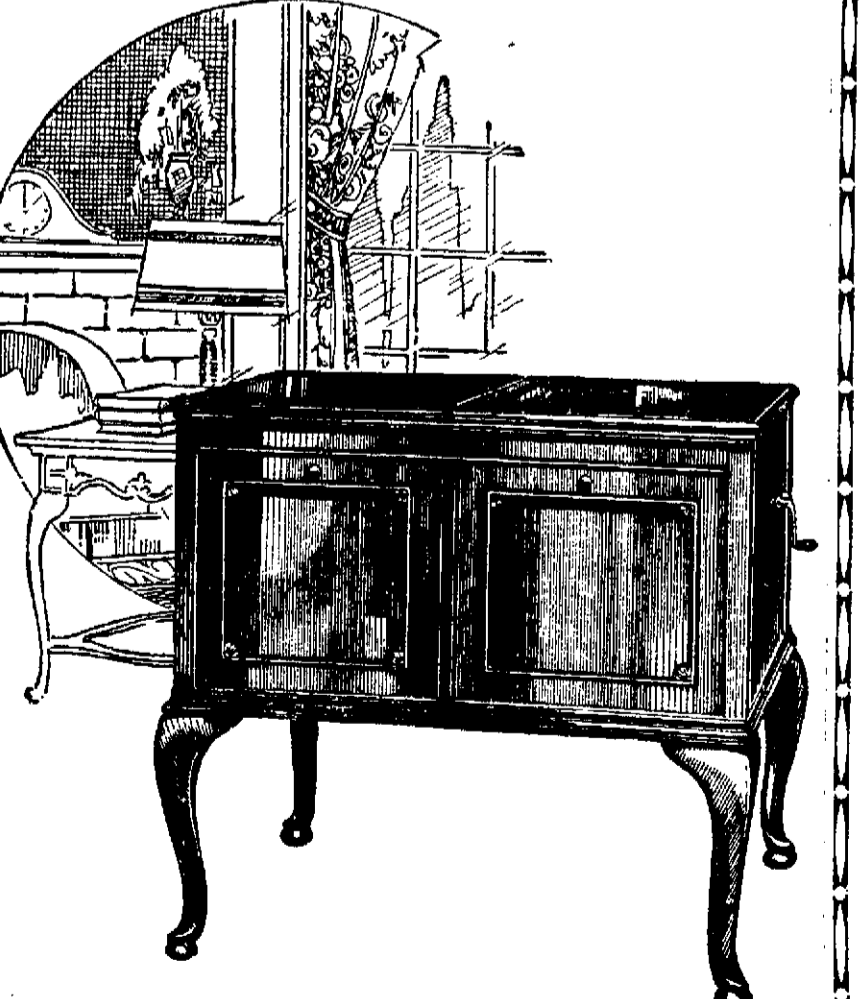

J. T. Greenberg, field representative of the trade extension bureau, who spoke pointed out to the plumbers the opportunity of public service. The improvement of health and sanitation resulting from the progressive activities of the plumbing trade were emphasized as was the value of using high grade goods in connection with high grade service. Mr. Greenberg scored the attitude that plumbing is an overall job, pointing out that the merchant plumbers all started in overalls but advanced to business men because they were progressive.

BLAME WIRE FOR DEATH OF FOND DU LAC COUPLE

By Associated Press

Fond du Lac — Investigation made by the Eastern Wisconsin Electric company showed that the insulation on the lap cord from which Mr. and Mrs. George Kohls received their fatal shock Thursday night was in a badly worn condition and that the wire was entirely bare for a short distance near the lamp, according to M. H. Frank, manager of the electric company.

"Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Kohls experienced a shock when they handled the cord except when they touched the spot where the insulation was torn off and the wire was bare. This was further borne out by the fact that Coroner Candlish experienced no shock even though he jerked the wire out of Mr. Kohls' hand," said the manager.

"If the insulation on the cord had been in safe condition the accident would not have occurred even though the voltage which came into the house at the time of the accident was caused by reason of contact of wires outside the building," Mr. Frank declared.

TO TEN MEN IN THIS CITY

THERE are not over ten men in this city—or twenty at the most—who will be much interested in what follows. You are the same ten or twenty men we spoke to in our page last week. But you will be exceedingly interested. All others may turn the page.

We told you last week of the surprising thing that had happened in Chicago; that The Chicago Evening American after raising its price to 3 cents now has the largest circulation of any evening newspaper published in Chicago and the second largest 3-cent evening newspaper circulation in America.

An Interesting Analysis of an Intensely Interesting Kind of Circulation

A YEAR AGO, people said it was fool-hardy for the Chicago Evening American to raise its price to 3c. They said it would be a death blow to an important newspaper property; that with its fifty year old competitor still selling for 2c, the American circulation would practically be eliminated.

But it wasn't fool-hardy, it wasn't even gambling. It was a sure thing which netted a revenue of $1,250,000 in extra pennies, as well as a circulation increase to first place in the evening paper field of Chicago and second place in the 3-cent evening paper field of America.

It was a sure thing because we knew what we were about. And what follows is perhaps the most interesting analysis of newspaper circulation that has ever been made.

For twenty years the Evening American has been building the kind of newspaper that appeals to people under forty or to people who think under forty. In other words, a newspaper for the coming generation and for the generation that is still coming; for young people just getting married and starting out in life, for older ones just getting their full grip of power—but always for those who felt that they were still coming—not going.

We built this kind of a newspaper for three reasons:

First, because there are more people under forty than there are over forty.

Second, because such minds are more open to new things.

And third, because, although younger people may have less, they spend more.

Now, the American is the only paper in Chicago that deliberately appeals to the generation that is still up and coming; and, therefore, we knew that to such people a penny was not going to make any difference in the choice of the paper they wanted.

And it didn't.

It would amaze you to see how completely this plan has worked out. If you will stand at any one of the thousands of newspaper corners in any part of Chicago where all four Chicago evening papers are being sold and make an actual count, you will see that probably seven out of ten of all people under forty choose the American. And that this represents considerably over half of all the newspaper reading people of Chicago.

You will also be amazed to see how the Evening American and one other evening paper practically cover ALL of Chicago and its nearby markets—the other paper appealing to the older conservatives and the American appealing almost universally to the “generation-under-forty.”

This may give you a viewpoint you have never thought of before. Namely:

That a newspaper that directs its reader interest consistently toward the younger generation—and in every particular to people under forty—must inevitably acquire the largest number of readers in its territory.

Perfectly logical, when you come to think about it, because there are far more people under forty than there are over forty. And when you build a paper for people under forty, they naturally buy it and read it.

And Now, As To The Advisability of An Under-Forty Circulation

We quoted above the three reasons for building this kind of circulation. The second and third reasons are the important ones to you: Namely, that the minds of the people under forty and of people who think under forty are more open to new things; and that, although they may have less, they spend more.

It is very easy to get at the truth of these facts. All you have to do is to take the statistics of people over forty who buy new cars, who buy washing machines, or vacuum sweepers, or furniture or labor saving devices or more than two suits a year (men's or women's) or more than the necessary amount of hosiery or shoes or underwear—to say nothing of baby carriages or toys.

The reason is very simple: the necessary things they already have. The new things they do not take to, because age has established its habits and is not venturesome; and the superfluous things they are trying to get rid of because they are unpacking their load as they get along in years.

On the other hand, the younger generation is interested in motor cars, of the kind according to its pocketbook. And, please remember, youth is not a measure of poverty any more than age is a measure of wealth: there are more poor old people than there are poor young ones. Youth is also interested in furniture because it is building new homes. It is interested in labor-saving devices and in all kinds of new appliances, from washing machines to vacuum cleaners, because youth is venturesome and is always seeking new things. Youth wants a whole lot more than two suits of clothes a year, (men's or women's) wants all the shoes, stockings, underwear, shirts, collars, neckties, handkerchiefs and every other kind of adornment it can get, because these things belong to youth. AND IT GETS THEM BECAUSE YOUTH USUALLY GETS WHAT IT GOES AFTER. As for baby carriages and toys—well—to youth these are not a matter of choice.

And finally, although they may have less, they spend more. This sounds like an Irish bull, but it's true. Age is always spending a part of what remains. Youth is always spending from the immeasurable store of wealth that the future holds. To age, a dollar is a fixed part of a certain necessary outlay for the month or the year. To youth, a dollar is only something that it happens to have in its pocket at that time for a necktie or a pair of stockings or a first payment down for whatever its fancy may light upon and its purse afford. And this is equally true whether measured in pennies or in hundred dollar bills. Even where youth is provident, it is only provident for a purpose and that purpose is for future power.

Now that is the kind of a paper the American started to build twenty years ago. That is the kind of a paper it has been building ever since and these are the reasons why it has built that kind of a paper.

As for circulation—a 400,000 daily average answers that emphatically.

And as for pulling power—it just can't help having pulling power!

DROPS DEAD AS HE SEES MARINETTE BEAT SHEBOYGAN

Twin City Eleven Beats Chair City By A Score Of 6 To 3

Green Bay — With a whirlwind finish, Marinette high school in the last quarter on Saturday scored a touchdown which beat Sheboygan, 6 to 3, and entitles Marinette to the state championship.

Gordon Vieth, 25 years old, former resident of Marinette dropped dead when his home town team came from behind and scored the touchdown.

PLACES DROP KICK

Vieth had been troubled with heart disease, but according to August Neumann, an uncle who was sitting beside him at the game he was as well as usual when he went to the game and had been laughing and joking. Vieth is a son of Otto Vieth, Marinette business man. He was a talented musician and painter and had been playing in a Green Bay theater orchestra.

Jensen of Sheboygan droppedkick from the twenty-eight yard line in the first quarter which was all Sheboygan's. From that time on play was fairly even but in Sheboygan territory most of the time. Hoffman, substitute Marinette halfback on the fourth down with four yards to go, carried the ball over in the last quarter. Sheboygan came right back and at one time had the ball on Marinette fifteen said line.

In the second quarter, Marinette twice came close to scoring. Once Sheboygan held on the five yard line. Another time Marinette carried the ball over the line but fumbled and Sheboygan recovered for a touchback.

PLAY ON IN FIELD

The third quarter was played in the center of the field and in Sheboygan's territory. Marinette had opened up with long forward passes which carried the ball close to a touchdown. On the third play of the final quarter, Marinette worked a trick play. The line shifted to one side. Hoffman took the ball and went through an opening between center and guard on the opposite side.

The game was an excellent battle with little fumbling despite the excitement. There appeared to be little to choose between the teams. For Sheboygan, Cameron, Jensen and Meier were the stars. Sanford and M. Kresky started for Marinette.

SOUTH AMERICA WANTS CAPABLE SPORT TRAINERS

Recent Centennial Celebration Proves Impetus To Athletics

By Associated Press.

Rio De Janeiro—The South American and Olympic games football championship series proved one of the most attractive features of the Brazilian centennial celebration. About five hundred athletes from Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, Paraguay and Brazil came here to participate. The first meet events and football games took place in the huge stadium of the Fluminense football club, and during the major events the stands were filled to their capacity, which is 50,000 persons. The football games, especially, were the means of attracting enormous numbers of fans who constituted colorful and animated pictures of gay enthusiasm.

Every participating country showed special development in some lines of sport or athletics. Chile, for example, easily took first place in all of the distance foot races, the Chilean runner Plaza winning both the Marathon (40 kilometers) and the cross country (10 kilometers). Argentina excelled in the shorter races, the hurdles and the relay races. Brazil captured all the aquatics, rowing, swimming and water polo. Willy Scowald, Brazil, broke all South American records throwing the javelin.

Argentina and Chile broke about even in shooting, fencing and horsemanship, leading all other contestants. Although Brazil won the championship, Uruguay and Paraguay showed themselves football players of the first quality. A break of luck would have been sufficient to make either of their teams champions.

Sport critics declared it was not the fault of the athletes that better records were not made, but lack of proper and scientific training. That this criticism has not fallen on deaf ears is indicated by the report that the sport clubs of virtually every country participating in the Rio program are already searching for capable trainers in all of the principal lines of athletics.

TROUT STREAMS

In cases where streams have been overstocked, it is sometimes years before they regain their normal conditions and afford good fishing along their entire length. And the trouble is, if you or other voracious fish are introduced into these streams to better their conditions, they may eventually force out all competitors.

If there are long, deep pools of comparatively wide water along the length of such overstocked streams, these are the best to fish, as all the big trout will find themselves to these deep pools for elbow room and a place where their natural food is not split up among a thousand frantic fingerlings, and even in such pools it will be a task to get a fly strike from the larger trout that are apparently sulking at the bottom.

In its natural environment, the speckled trout bankers for a water temperature of 66 degrees or lower. It is a cold water fish and the spring fed stream is its natural home. If the shrubbery, trees, and other vegetable matter have been cut and trimmed from the sides of such streams, allowing the sun to strike the water breeding grounds of fish food, we find the streams will quickly become warmer and eventually the brook trout will just naturally disappear. Streams in this shape, which are properly stocked with the right proportion of brown trout than can live in water of much higher temperature than can the brook type, usually afford very fine angling.

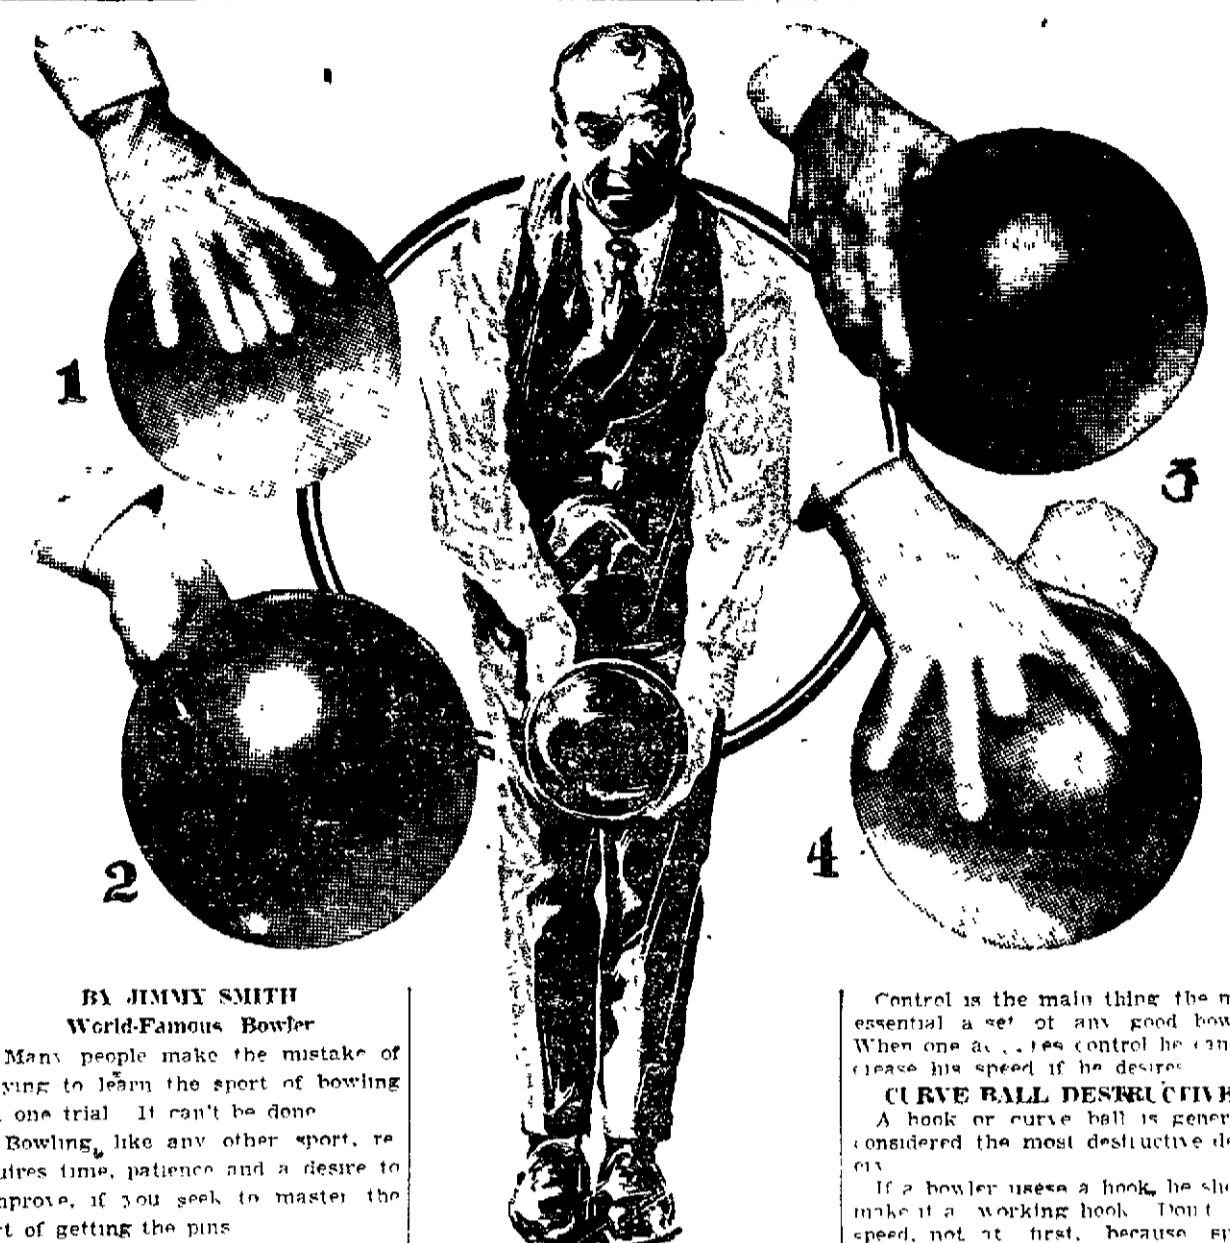

As all fishermen know, the ideal stream for all trout is the one which is plentifully supplied with bushes and brush along the shores, upon which the insects breed or rest. Windfalls in the water not only furnish pleasant hiding places for the little fellows, but they are also the storage place for all kinds of larvae, bugs and other fish chow.

If it is intended to stock a stream which is clean, logs should be thrown into and across it, and rapidly-growing vegetable matter of different varieties planted along its courses.

Jimmy Smith Tells You How To Bowl

BY JIMMY SMITH
World-Famous Bowler

Many people make the mistake of trying to learn the sport of bowling in one trial. It can't be done.

Bowling, like any other sport, requires time, patience and a desire to improve. If you seek to master the art of getting the pins.

I would advise the novice to start using a straight ball. He can either start it down the center of the alley or on the right side and let it work into the pins.

Regardless of the style of delivery used the most important thing is to hit the head pin. It is preferable to hit the head pin full rather than miss it entirely.

HIT THE HEAD PIN
Seldom is a strike made if the head pin is missed, but many a strike is made when the ball hits the head pin full, a hit that is usually regarded as a possible split.

Great speed is not necessary to success. Some of the game's greatest bowlers use a slow ball, while others prefer a half speed.

A half-speed ball gives the pins a chance to work as the ball cuts through.

Seniors 21, Juniors 20.
FINAL GAME
Freshmen 28, Seniors 24.

Playing a fast game throughout with "Jake" Zussman former Appleton high school caging ace as the star, the Lawrence college Freshmen basketball team won the college tournament in the armory Saturday night by defeating the Seniors in the final game with a five minute overtime period by a score of 28 to 24.

The victory of the yearlings was a surprise to the Seniors who had copped every tourney for the last three years and had hoped to establish a precedent by taking the fourth tourney.

The Freshmen eliminated the Sophomores and the Seniors had eliminated the Juniors.

The result of the final game showed that the yearlings were some of the best caging talent in the school and have a good chance to make berths on the regular college team. The Seniors played a strong game but the shooting ability of Zussman is farward was hard to overcome. Other Freshmen who took part in the tourney were "Red" Smith, Hermann guards, Glover center, Kotal, Zussman and Jacobson forwards.

The Seniors alternated their lineups Basing, Puchner, Wright and Kout played forward. William Smith played a good game at guard. Mitchell and Collins alternated at guard and center.

LIVING TOGETHER IN PEACE, WORLD'S BIGGEST PROBLEM

Facts Of Life Will Keep World
Christian, Dr. Ganfield
Says

"I believe the world will never outgrow the Christianity of Jesus, because it is the only and only complete satisfaction of man arising out of sorrow and death."

With that statement Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, Waukegan, answered the question which he announced as the topic of his address at the Peoples Forum Sunday evening in the Law Center Memorial chapel.

"Will the World Outgrow Christianity?"

Yet in the question which he threw out as a virtual challenge at the close of his address, he gave indication that the world must go a long way before Christianity will prevail in its true power and significance. Admitting that our predecessors have asked the questions of the existence of God, the fatherhood of us all, the way in which we go to the Father, he maintained that the people of today must find the solution to this problem.

How, shall we as God's children get along and dwell together "on God's earth?"

CAVE NAME SOLUTION

Dr. Ganfield said that he knew how to solve the problem. He said that he knew how to solve the problem before the world was created. Standing in the presence of a man, he asked, "Will the answer to this, or changing his pose so his hands were outstretched in prayer, and help. Will it be this?"

The speaker declared that the Bible had answered the other questions mentioned above. He then added, "It is my honest conviction that the intelligent appreciation and sincere practice of the principles of the book will answer the question that is before us to be solved. Division without humanity is a cruel, humiliate without religion is suicide. Jesus is the perfect sacrifice of our world; the book is the perfect answer to our questions."

Dr. Ganfield opened his talk with a discussion of why people are asking the question for the first time in history. They are asking what is the truth in the sky. In dealing with this question, he said, honesty is essential. It is preposterous to wish just as sympathy is to service.

FACE THREE FACTS

The speaker emphasized to quote three universal facts, which he maintained would cause religion to exist. First, these enter into human life. Any race that can get along without these can get along without Christianity, he said. The three facts are the existence of sin, the fact of sorrow and that of death.

Then, he explained, was present in every part of the world among all peoples. Even those who never heard of Jesus are conscious of the fact that they have done wrong when such is the case and they seek some way to expiate themselves to prevent a retribution. He continued the subject, saying that the society women of the day business men would spend a great deal of time thinking of them and they would find at least one or two changes in their lives which they should not have done.

Sorrow comes to all alike whether in the form of poverty, loss, vanity, disappointment, disease or death. As to death, he quoted, "The valley of the shadow of death, sorrow and death, all must pass."

CAN'T DOWN RELIGION

"A human race without these three universal facts is a race without religion."

50 GIRLS ENJOY ZONA GALE TALKS

Life And Works Of Wisconsin
Authoress Discussed
At Cozey

More than 50 girls attended the cozy at Appleton Women's clubroom on Sunday afternoon when a program on Zona Gale was given. Mrs. J. T. Reeves told of the characteristics of Zona Gale personally and professionally and read from "Peace in Friendship Village," one of her earliest books.

Miss Eva Fillmore, an instructress at Lawrence college, read a characteristic letter, which Miss Gale had written her concerning the production of the play, "Neighbors." Miss Muriel Kelly told of Miss Gale as a newspaper reporter on the Milwaukee Journal, of her work with the Wisconsin Players and of the visit which Miss Gale made to Appleton three years ago when she was instrumental in getting the national journalism society to establish a chapter at Lawrence.

The group which attended the cozy included members of the original Appleton Girls club, the casts of "Neighbors" from both Appleton and Neenah dramatic workshops, Lawrence college girls and others. Supper was served to more than 50. The play casts had an hilarious time discussing the incidents which happened while they were rehearsing for the play. The Neenah club will have the Appleton girls as guests at a Sunday afternoon program soon.

Dr. Ganfield said, "We may as well admit that we are not a religious people. No question ever is answered unless answered rightly; no problem solved unless solved correctly. No want satisfied unless solved wisely and satisfactorily."

The Bible contains no statement where God made an argument to prove that he is. People knew there was a greater being of all things, and the question as to who he was would not arise. There was one man, Jesus, who was brave enough to answer this question. That was long ago. Today nobody questions God, whether he be Jew or Gentile, a Catholic or Protestant.

This one man came forth in answer to the world's question, "Who are we?" and told all that they were God's children. No moments are wasted discussing that. The question then arose as to how the man out of harmony with God could effect a reconciliation. Europe tried for many years to settle that question, and the answer came through the man who said, "I am the way."

What will the future be if we reject or fail to answer the question that it before us today? asked the speaker. "The name, adopt and accept all that which will enable God's children to get along and dwell together here on God's earth will mean much to the world."
